To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to give the highest recommendation for Mr. David Walden. I have known David for well over 20 years during my career in the mortgage industry. He has been successful & productive in the mortgage business and has established an immense number of industry contacts during that time.

David is an intelligent and motivated individual. He is more than capable of managing a group of people or providing insightful commentary as to the state of affairs and trends in the mortgage industry. I have known David to create and run successful sales teams including start up organizations. He has always brought innovative, creative sales ideas & effective coaching techniques to drive successful performance. In discussing David with others that have worked him as I have, a common thread of the discussion involves his team building abilities.

Feel free to call me for additional information.

Sincerely,
